

HRMagazine™

June 2007

CPP, Inc. has announced the release of MBTI®Complete, a Myers-Briggs Type Indicator® assessment tool that is now available online. By using MBTI®Complete, HR professionals can spend less time interpreting personality assessment results and more time improving organizational performance. This online product can help boost effectiveness of training by introducing and defining personality types to training program participants.

MBTI®Complete also guarantees that standard interpretations are delivered to each client, which puts participants on a level playing field prior to any training exercise.